

2016 TRU Learning Award

Kenna Sim

Faculty of Arts

Her passion for social justice and helping others combined with her love of travel allow Kenna Sim to embody what it means to be a learner in a globalized world. Kenna's participation in a wide variety of learning activities both at TRU and abroad have allowed her to develop her leadership abilities and have inspired her to pursue a career in human rights. From her work on the TRU Intercultural Council to her studies in Sociology, Kenna's capacities as a "Helper", "Traveler" and "Thinker" have blossomed and she is poised for the next step on her learning pathway that will allow her to, in her own words, "help marginalized people seek justice and create a more equitable society."
