

My name is Levi Escobar, I am a fourth year Philosophy student, a former club leader, and a Member at Large on the TRUSU Services Committee.

I'm running for the TRU Board of Governors because students deserve someone in the room when big decisions about our university are made.

Tuition, fees, pay to print, and the overall cost of being a student keep going up, and too often those decisions feel distant or out of our control. The Board of Governors is where those decisions are discussed, and student voices need to be present, prepared, and taken seriously.

I can't promise to fix everything overnight, but I can promise to listen to students, ask questions on your behalf, and push for transparency and fairness in how decisions are made. I take this role seriously, and I won't disappear once elected.

I believe student representatives should be accessible and accountable. I'm always open to hearing from you and will do my best to get you clear answers when you have concerns. I have the experience and political will to make it happen.

I care deeply about this campus and the people in it, and I would be honoured to earn your vote.
