Swagatam Majumder

Swagatam is a post baccalaureate accounting student at Thompson Rivers University(TRU). He believes in pursuing constructive initiatives which would positively impact the lives of the people in the Society.

He is the founding president of the first ever Taxation Club at TRU with an aim to assist students in filing their tax returns at no cost starting from April 2018. Since he started, in the last 4 months under his leadership the tax club has grown from a modest headcount of three team members to a staggering volunteer base of more than 85 students. Also, it rarely happens that a student gets a full-time job opportunity from one of the best accounting firms in the world right in his first semester. Swagatam competed for this coveted position at KPMG, Vancouver amongst students from other Ivy league universities and yet successfully secured his spot. Subsequently he was interviewed by TRU world for his achievement, where he shared that what he feels most proud about is that he could represent TRU amongst other universities. Swagatam is positive that given an opportunity to represent the students of TRU as one of the Board of governors, he would give his best to ensure that the student voices are heard while the board decides to set future policies.
