POLICY

It is assumed that students enroll at the University out of an interest in furthering their education. Accordingly it is expected that students will conduct themselves towards University staff, fellow students and members of the University community in a manner consistent with the goals and professional demeanor of an educational institution. This includes demonstrating a respect for legitimate rights and freedoms of others.

In the event the University considers students' conduct to be inconsistent with this expectation, or considers that students are not appropriately dedicated to the furthering of their own education, they may be suspended for a set period or indefinitely.

REGULATIONS

The President may suspend a student for unsatisfactory conduct, for failure to abide by University regulations and/or policies, or for consistent failure to demonstrate adequate effort in the pursuit of educational progress.

A student may appeal a suspension imposed by the President to Senate.
