

POLITICAL STUDIES

Political Studies or Political Science, as it is more commonly known, is one of the newest and fastest growing disciplines in the Humanities and Social Sciences. Political Studies examines politics, government and political ideas, themes which concern the every day life of ordinary citizens as well as scholars, bureaucrats and politicians. The breadth of the subject means that Political Studies is a highly pluralistic discipline.

CONTACT US

TINA BLOCK

Chair, Department of Philosophy, History & Politics

Email: tblock@tru.ca

Phone: 250-828-5329

ADMISSIONS

Applications for admission to most programs are accepted starting Oct. 1 each year for programs that begin in August or September of the following year. Check the website complete details on admissions processes:

Apply On-Line visit: www.tru.ca/future/admissions

THOMPSON RIVERS UNIVERSITY

Faculty of Arts

FIELDS OF STUDY

Canadian Politics

Political Theory

Comparative Politics

International Relations

Public Policy and Administration

Political Behaviours

CAREERS FOR GRADUATES

Students of Politics have gone into a variety of interesting careers including: politics (the last four Canadian Prime Ministers have had some training in Political Science), law, journalism, and the bureaucracy. Increasingly, graduates are also moving into careers in business and public relations as businesses and interest groups become more aware of the skills obtained in the study of politics. Many graduates as well pursue higher degrees in the discipline, enter education programs or develop careers as researchers.

A concentration in Political Studies not only provides a scholarly understanding of politics but provides skills in demand in most professional occupations.