OPPORTUNITIES FOR STUDENTS

The TRU Actors Workshop is the live stage element of TRU's Visual and Performing Arts Department. All stage productions are primarily students enrolled in various acting and technical theatre courses and are directed by program faculty. Students in other programs, alumni and faculty are also featured.

Students may acquire course credit for their participation during the four productions that occur during the season from September to April.

The TRU Actors Workshop Theatre continues to partner with the professional theatre company in Kamloops, Western Canada Theatre, to create opportunities to further students' practical experience. Onstage and offstage, many past and present theatre students have contributed to this equity houses' season of theatricals. Many TRU Theatre graduates continue to perform and train in professional and community capacities long after finishing their Theatre Arts Major.
